Report Objective

To provide Council with the community engagement outcomes of the proposed restoration natural burial ground to be established on the unused and unoccupied land at the Old Goolwa Cemetery, Kessell Road Goolwa and to seek Council approval to negotiate a draft agreement for the use of the land between Council and the Natural Burial Trust of Australia and the Nature Foundation.

Executive Summary

At the Council meeting held on 17 June 2024, Council resolved (C24253) to approve public consultation to be undertaken on the proposed establishment of a restoration natural burial ground to be established on a portion of unused land located at the Old Goolwa Cemetery, Kessell Road, Goolwa, Crown Record Volume 5764 Folio 782.

The outcome of the survey results was 95% in support and 5% against the establishment of a restoration natural burial. A detailed analysis of the survey outcomes is provided further in this report.

Given the high level of support of the initiative, it is recommended that an agreement with Natural Burial Trust of Australia and the Nature Foundation should be negotiated.

Context

Council administration received an enquiry from the Natural Burial Trust of Australia in partnership with the Nature Foundation seeking to identify any suitable land within the Alexandrina Council region that would be suitable to establish a restoration natural burial ground.

The Burial and Cremation Act 2013 and associated regulations allow for this type of offering.

Administration staff have worked with the Natural Burial Trust of Australia and the Nature Foundation to identify land parcels that may be considered suitable to establish a natural burial ground. The portion of the unused / un-occupied Old Goolwa Cemetery site located on Kessell Road, Goolwa is preferred.

The Natural Burial Ground Trust of Australia is a charitable Trust created to establish and manage natural burial grounds across Australia. The Trust's aim is to create accessible, affordable and sustainable burial options for everyone. The Natural Burial Ground Trust of Australia operates in partnership with existing environmental charities, such as the Nature Foundation.

The Nature Foundation, established in 1981 is South Australia's largest charitable conservation organisation. With a vision of inspiring people to connect with and conserve the natural habitat of South Australia for future generations, the Nature Foundation works closely with community groups to sustainably manage South Australia's unique biodiversity for better environmental outcomes.

The proposal seeks to establish what is believed to be Australia's first genuine 'restoration' natural burial ground

Both the Natural Burial Trust of Australia and the Nature Foundation are not-for-profit organisations, and the intent is to enable individuals and families to choose an affordable, natural burial that connects the death of an individual to the restoration of the planet. Therefore, costs associated with a 'restoration' natural burial are kept to a minimum to cover the operating expenses associated with the individual burial only, and surplus revenue is used for the protection and expansion of the native habitat.

General Analysis

As per resolution C24253 of 17 June 2024 Council Meeting, the proposal to establish a restoration natural burial ground on a portion of unused land located at the Old Goolwa Cemetery was released for public consultation between Thursday 20 June 2024 and Friday 12 July 2024.

The public consultation included print media with public notices displayed in the Southern Argus and Fleurieu Sun newspapers on 20 June 2024, social media posts via Facebook and Instagram released on 21 June 2024 and also 5 July 2024 as well as Council's MySay page.

On closure of the public consultation, there were 224 aware visitors, 131 informed visitors and 56 engaged visitors. Council received a total of 57 formal responses during the consultation period.

The responses were from a mixture of Alexandrina residents (38.6%), Alexandrina ratepayers (56.1%), visitor (1.8%) or other (3.5%).

Of the 57 formal responses received, 54 supported the proposal and 3 respondents did not support the proposal. This equates to 95% in support and 5% against.

Of the 54 responses supporting the proposal, 44 of these respondents also confirmed they would preference a natural burial, with only 5 respondents opting for a traditional cemetery burial, 14 preferring cremation and 4 respondents choosing an alternative option.

A copy of the project report and survey responses is provided at Attachment 1 and Attachment 2 with this report.

Comparative Analysis

Nil

Financial and Economic Implications

In accordance with the Alexandrina Council's Adopted Budget / Long Term Financial Plan, the financial implications of adopting this recommendation are considered low as the overall proposal has no cost implications to Council as the site would be fully managed by the Natural Burial Trust of Australia in collaboration with the Nature Foundation.

As this is a unique situation and Administration have no precedents on the type of legal land agreement to enter into, legal advice will be sought which is estimated at $2,000 which will be funded through existing budgets.

Risk Management

In accordance with Alexandrina Council's Risk Assessment Matrix, the risk of adopting this recommendation is considered low as the large majority of responses received during the community consultation period are in support of the proposal.

Conclusion

An opportunity is currently available to Council to consider providing land (via a Ground Lease or similar) to the Natural Burial Trust of Australia and the Nature Foundation to establish a restoration natural burial ground on the portion of unused and un-occupied land located at the Old Goolwa Cemetery site on Kessell Road, Goolwa. Following the outcomes of the recent community engagement consultation, it is recommended that Council progress this proposal and endorse Administration to proceed with negotiating a draft agreement for the use of the land with the Natural Burial Trust of Australia and the Nature Foundation.

I think it provides another choice for people. We don't all want the same thing, from my understanding, it will provide a cheaper alternative to traditional burials or cremations. The fact it will be returned to natural bush land and cared for into the future is a bonus. Plus it's no cost to the council..so there should be no protest from within..!

For many years I have been suggesting that this site could be reopened as a lawn cemetery, and the current proposal sits very comfortably within my original idea. The only word of caution I would add is to check the ground water levels as I have always been told that the reason the cemetery was abandoned was because after land clearing for agriculture the water table rose to an unacceptable level for burials.

Yes, but in conjunction with restoration and preservation of the interment sites within the adjoining Goolwa Cemetery. Particularly to make the site more accessible to visitors, and interments/plots better identifiable. Council have been lucky in the discovery of native flora within the Old Cemetery in years past, as it's been a happy excuse for systematic neglect to tending to the area, under the guise of potentially disturbing plant matter. I do believe there is some need for a natural burial option. Recently on a tour of the Old Goolwa site, some other parties within the group brought up how they'd like a natural burial.

I think this is a great way to honour loved ones that is more environmentally friendly and feels natural. It would give people more options from the standard cemetery burial or cremation. Personally I have never wanted to be buried as the concept of being buried in a cemetery felt depressing to me but a natural burial would be a much nicer final resting place. It would also feel like a more welcoming place for grieving loved ones to visit than a standard cemetery which can feel cold and overwhelming.

It is a no brainer. The current land is of no use to anyone. Natural burial does away with expensive, harmful to environment cremation. No toxic chemicals like usual burials. Much more affordable. The amount spent on "normal funerals" is outrageous.

I am a long term genealogist & local historian & have been so for well over 40 years. I have University qualifications in genealogy. I KNOW that both my husband's & my ancestors were very early settlers in the Goolwa area. & am proud to be a local resident. Many people of those early days could not afford headstones BUT surely their final resting place should be respected, preserved & they should be able to rest in peace. We already have many aka enough parks & reserves in the Alexandrina council area - specifically the wider Goolwa area SO why destroy the final resting place of some of our early settlers ?

For those who must have a burial place it's not a bad idea, and if it helps to preserve what is left of the old cemetery and perhaps provide some acknowledgement for those buried there and their history it would be a good thing

Q6. Which option would you consider for your memorialisation?

Other (please specify)

I intend to that my remains be cremated and the ashes cast in the sea , end of story so effectively no memorialisation Despite that, I recognise that some feel the need for memorialisation and feel that this proposal is as good as any (and more environmentally friendly than extending existing cemeteries)

This is a very historic sight in relation to the burial of very early settlers in Goolwa, including my Great great Grandfather Ned Cremer who was the first Signalman at the Murray Mouth. As such I would like his gravesite acknowledged with at least a map of his gravesite along with the other settlers buried there. It has been neglected too long. The significance of vegetation has taken precedence over the historic value of the Cemetery's significance. There are other natural scrublands nearby e.g. the property belonging to the Dennis Family, which could be used as natural burial site.

Family history is my main reason. My great grandmother is buried there. Died in childbirth in a rowboat while crossing the Murray Mouth in 1863 seeking medical help at Goolwa. Her name was Grace Hack, granddaughter of pioneer John Barton Hack of Encounter Bay. An old Goolwa record shows Hock, a spelling error, but I have been unable to find her grave. I hope the proposed work will extend to indentifying who is already buried there.

I support the premise of natural burials - 'green and clean', plus the resultant restoration of bushland. I would caution that clear, concise records of location and identification need to be foremost in the actions of all the participants taking responsibility for management of the burial function, with records easily accessible and permanent for relatives and descendants now and into the future. In todays digital world, this should be a simple task to manage.

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] We are really quite apprehensive about this proposal and how it may impact our future

[REDACTED] We do not support this proposal, however, if feedback is to be addressed, we have listed some concerns below for further consultation [REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] 1) 'Australia's first genuine restoration natural burial ground': this seems like a trial run or test run. What research has been done and what evidence is available that this is safe to the environment and surrounding farmland? We only get one chance so all risks should be documented and presented. 2) Noise: we have concerns about the noise during development and ongoing digging requirements. As there will now be several neighbouring properties (families with young children), what restrictions will be put in place to ensure night works are prohibited? How will this be monitored and policed? 3) Site security and access: will there be fencing around the perimeter and will gates etc be locked each night? Are there any additional security measures? It is important that this area cannot be utilised as a late night 'hang-out' spot. Previous events of vandalism have been reported in this location. 4) Carpark: the primary carpark area on the design concept is not suitable as there is insufficient privacy screening to neighbouring properties. In addition, seeing funeral vehicles entering and leaving is not something that families (children) need to be aware of/witness frequently. This must be addressed as it could impact the welfare of children. A dedicated accessway for funeral vehicles needs to be considered. The initial carpark area on the design concept would be much more suitable as it is far more discreet. 5) Shed: suitable mature screening should be used so neighbours do not have direct view of funeral vehicles arriving/departing (refer above regarding welfare). Toilet should be locked each evening to prevent out of hours use and potential vandalism. 7) Number of sites/burials: how many burials are included in each stage and what is the maximum number? What would be the intended start and finish dates of each stage? 8) Neighbouring farmland: We would like commitment that neighbouring farmland is never to be acquired for any expansion and will remain untouched permanently e.g. commitment that D132451 Q12 would never be acquired. 9) Road Signage: This should be limited and kept discreet. 10) Escalation points: if land is 'handed over' to the Natural Burial Ground Trust, how would [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] report or make complaints of any wrongdoing (noise etc). Council involvement should remain. Happy to discuss further. [REDACTED]

I totally support this proposal for Natural Burial. We are no longer able to do active Bushcare with Trees for Life but in the past have done so at the Old Goolwa Cemetery and I believe the surrounding land to be a very suitable site for Natural Burial and Restoration. As a Resident and Ratepayer in the area for almost 60 years I sincerely hope that the Proposal is successful.

As a passionate advocate of both social and natural histories I think that this proposal for a natural burial facility in close proximity to the old Goolwa cemetery offers exciting possibilities. However I am acutely aware that the old Kessel Road cemetery has had a litany of problems plaguing its reputation from its inception in the 1850's until quite recently. This site chosen midway between Goolwa and Middleton coincided with the nearby building of the first iron rail public railway in the commonwealth , however the spot selected failed to appreciate the natural hydrology of this area . Some contemporary theorists have suggested that the clearing of natural vegetation by local farmers caused a raising in the local water table making it difficult to access the cemetery and difficult to dig graves and perform respectful burials. This theory lacks credibility as although the adjoining farm lands are now largely denuded of natural vegetation , this was not the case in the 1860s , 1870s and 80s. One only needs to look to the southeast , to the boardwalks of the Tuckamour Reserve and the Port Elliot to Goolwa main road , built up and much, much higher than the original road to know why this cemetery was often boggy , flooded and eventually abandoned. Following its closing in the 1890s it fell even further into neglect, poor record keeping , overgrown with weeds , vandalism and questionable decisions concerning the removing of existing headstones in the 1970s left us with an embarrassing tribute that in some ways still resonates today. Some of the indigenous burials in this cemetery are a watershed moment in the changing of local aboriginal cultural funerary practices . When the deceased were no longer smoked and then carefully placed on raised tree platforms. Recent research into reports of the time suggest that the adoption of European ways of placing the dead in coffins to be buried in the ground was not always appreciated by local indigenous people. Recognition of the importance of biodiversity and the relevance of maintaining and enhancing the flora of this old cemetery and its surrounds has come to the fore more recently and offers the best hope of dignifying and managing it into the future. - and of course, then there is the additional ' chestnut ' that the entire proposal is cost neutral to the rate payers of Alexandrina. . Unfortunately
